

The John Polanyi Nobel Prize (1986) items are in a locked cabinet on the second floor of Massey College , University of Toronto, 4 Devonshire Place, Toronto, and permission is needed to see them. The medal shown is only a fake-gold copy of the original donated to Massey College by John Polanyi. Regrettably, the actual gold medal itself was stolen from Massey College soon after its donation. This is a real archival tragedy, and also a pecuniary one, given that Francis Crick's Nobel Prize medal was auctioned in 2013 for 2 million US dollars!
